New Catering and Hospitality Facility

Pleased with the previous kitchen and dining room project that Whitco completed, catering manager Trevor Beckett enlisted the expertise and skills of the sales and design team to assist with this new project.

The budget did not allow for a separate design consultant or project manager, so Trevor was asked to manage the complete job, and the contractors that he appointed were asked to extend their normal supply of goods and services – this was not a problem for Whitco, who have on many occasions assisted with creative design.

The school project had a very short lead time and all had to be approved before the end of the summer term so that work could commence in August and be completed before the college reopened in September.

Mood boards were created in a short space of time and meetings with suppliers were arranged, including builders for the construction of dividing walls and electricians for the ceiling and wall lighting.

A great level of trust was placed on Whitco by the college, designs had few revisions, the delivery and installation went smoothly and handover of the new kitchen went to schedule.

Another good job delivered to academia.
